

Three Pass Traverse with Catamount North Face

Non Guided Trip Organized by Jake Van Allen

February 14th – 17th (specific date TBD)

- The Three Pass Traverse is a Rogers Pass classic and offers travel in some of the lesser tracked areas of the park. It can be done in a day or more, but our plan is to do it in one day so we can travel light and maximize enjoyment of our turns. As part of the tour, we will attempt to summit Catamount and ski down the North face on our way down to Ursus Creek.
- Given the need for good stability and visibility, the date is not locked in and I am suggesting it happen one day on the family day weekend. If you are in for this trip, you will need to keep that weekend open.
- This traverse covers a lot of ground and once you are North of Catamount, the commitment is real as it is a long way out. Fitness is the real key here so be realistic with your capabilities.
- Stats: 29km, 2600+ meters elevation gain, one day. Fitness must be excellent.
- If you are interested in this trip please e-mail me at vanallen.jt@gmail.com and provide a brief summary of your experience. As it stands, the trip will be limited to 4 people plus myself. Of course, all guidelines with respect to COVID 19 will be adhered to, though we cannot anticipate what those look like by then.
- Note that I am not a mountain guide and this is not a guided trip. I am familiar with the route and will organize / lead the day, but you must be self sufficient in the mountains.
